

Refuge

Pompi

verse 1

they say you better look before you leap but life often don't leave a hole for you to peep we all hoping we not a victim of defeat caught up in the life cycle at the bottom of the chain gotta exercise power conquest is the order of the day ni tamanga, everybody wants to get paid ona bana, and another one is on the way but i am a hustler for us i have been hunting all day but i wonder, would we still be destiny if the weight of the world took the best of me would you look at your ring with disappointment or would you pick up my arms and come and join in like a soldier when the days are colder would i know my tears got a home on your shoulder would you keep my heart exposed to the vultures when the enemies approaching chorus

when the world is too much and i feel out of touch can i run to you for refuge babe, naine nima lema this rock that you see can not always be will you be strong for me

behind every successful man is a stronger woman as i am approaching success i am assuming you will be patient embracing me at the low times see potential in me even when i got no dimes would the words tempt you saying you can do better with emotions all aside you gonna know better that the man of your dream is actually a dream killer love is all good but your stomach needs feeling and you cannot have love for your dinner sanka waka ngono, see a certified spinner whats love when i cant keep you warm in the winter would you boldly reply with your chin up saying in my defence you aint making sense don't lecture me history says we don't learn from history i chose to be different and i learnt from my misery together through the pain and together through the victory that's a good thing coss you can't demand respect in a house that you didn't lay a brick in not a cool thing i got faith in the man so i aint going no where

speaking words that will move me i can depend on you so tender and soothing i can depend on you you make me feel better you purify my love for you is a burning fire
you make me feel better you purify my love for you is a burning fire
